The Federal Reserve Board has launched the Consumer's Guide to Credit Cards website to help consumers increase their knowledge of credit cards. The website will help consumers understand some of the terms and fees involved in credit card offers as well as regulations that protect credit card users. Visit their website if you want to:

- Estimate how long it will take you to payoff your credit card balances
- Understand the differences between variable and non-variable rates
- Stay on top of new regulations that protect the consumer
- Understand the terms and fees of different credit card offers
- Learn how to get the most value with non-variable credit cards
- Learn the new features in your monthly statements
- Use their interactive tools to understand your credit rights.

Clearpath FCU has a Platinum credit card program with non-variable rates. Visit the FRB's website by clicking here. Apply for a Clearpath Platinum Credit Card here! Convenience and Security
